WHITE ESKIMO.

Newly Found Race in North Canada.

The report that Mr V. Stefannsen, who has been exploring in North Canada for 918 the Natural History Museum of New York, regions where the discovery is said to have minsted by the Eskimo." been made, so recently as Mr Cosmo D. Melvill, F.R.G.S., who has communicated some experiences bearing upon Mr Stefannsen's report to The Standard. In the sutumn of 1910, when Mr Melvill and Mr John Hornby were hunting caribou between the Great Bear Luke and the Coppermine River, in North Canada, they fell in with a hunting party of Europeanised Eskimo, and camped with them for two days. They also met Mr Stefannsen, who had followed up directions they had placed in a cache on the Coppormine River, and exchanged notes upon their discoveries.

Mr Stefannsen is one of the toughest of explorers," said Mr Melvill. "He can practically equal the endurance of the native. Two winters ago caribou, and deed, all game was exceedingly scarce, and Dr Andersen are out making biological, as well as ethnological researches, and had collected a number of natural history specimens. In this scarcity they actually boiled these specimens in seal-oil and ats thom. When I last saw him in May, 1910. he had not resched any definite opinion with regard to the North Canadian Eskimo."

ESETMO ON MAINLAND. Mr Melvill states that there is a large group of Eskimo inhabiting, in scattered bands, the Canadian mainland. They are to be found between the Great Fish River, on the east, and the Dolphin and Union Straits, on the northwest, and even in Victoria Land and other northern islands They have no communication with the Western Eskimo, nor with their Southern neighbours, the Slave and Dog-rib Indians, These Indians, indeed, are their hereditary foes-they call them "the lousy people -as Indians practically always are to Eskimo, whether there has been contact between the two races or not. permine River Eskimo had ever seen, said Mr Melvill, scand certainly in the present generation there has been no communication between them and Europeans. Nevertheless, they have quite remarkably European features, and according to Stefannsen the Eskimo of Victoria Land are really a very fair people. Further north, too, he had heard that there were other similar groups. In habits and speech tools and weapons, and even in folk-lore, they are ordinary Eskimo.

come to them? Mr Melvill found that the ethnological puzzle." lively Victorian Eskimo whom he photo 498 graphed with a bow in his hand, did not believe that there were such people as white men." He and his wife supposed that stories of people living to the south were fairy tales. All these Eskimo whom he saw had the coarse, straight hair of the mongoloid, and fair skins, in spite of sunburn and weather-stain. So fair were they that when Stefannsen's Eskimo servants. natives of Herschol Island, Mackenzie River, first saw some of the same type in Victoria Land, they cried cut; Why they are the loo ale men! This mount that they thought them to be European sailors of the whiling ship at their home. Mr Melvill prefets to reject, until further evidence, two scientific theories which to

I believe that if only a few families are found to have marked European features it can be attributed to recent causes in their history. I know how European many of the Bear Lake Slave Indians look and this look can be expinized by the fact that numerous British expeditions have wintered in their country, and many of the old people even boast that hav been appointed ACTING SECREtheir fathers were white men. Admiral Collinson's Enterprise wintered in Walker Bay, Western Victoria Land, in 1851-2, and in the following year at Cambridge Bay, South Victoria Land. Praviously Sir James Clarke Ross had spent three years on the isthmus of Bookhis. A these ships had dealings with the Eskimo and at the British Museum there are collections made in these expeditions. HYBRID DEVELOPHERE

However, there is no record that these expeditions noted a European type existing among the tribes. But besides the traces which these expeditions might casily have left behind them, Sir John Franklin's Erebus and Terror had been abandoned in 1848 between Victoria Land and King William Land, so that it is enloplated that some 400 European scamen must have lived in the neighbourhood of these Eskimos for "We were the first white men the Cop- some years. Mr Melvill is, therefore, inclined to draw the conclusion that the fair Fakimos of Mr Stelemasen's discovery ate recent hybrid development. Their only weapon is the bows and

DEATH IN COAL-MINES.

The English papers to hand by the mail are already full of articles dealing with nearly every aspect of the coal-strike, the condition of the mining industry, the dangers of a miner scalling, etc. Among the more remarkable articles is one contributed to the Daily Mail by Joseph Keating, which he heads "Death in Colours": -No man, goes more willingly to his death

You would think that the eternal darkness of the pit would make men miserable and morose. Instead, the men whose lives are spent in respetual gloom are bright, light hearted and eminently content with their made by leading British and American lot. In winter time they see the light of heaven only on Sundays, for during six days it is dark when they go to their work and dark when they return—that is, if they return, for from the moment they step ipto the eago that is to take them down into the dark mine they put themselves within reach of death in a million forms.

> " PEATH HATH SO MANY DOORS." What particular dark hole Death may apring from, of course, no one knows. The rope may break, let the cage fall a thousand feet down, and smash sixteen human beings into unrecognisable pulp. Or, while still merely at the beginning of the day's work, squething might go wrong with the centre-guides-these things happen rather often ; then the upcoming cage calches the downgoing one, and the men > and boys are cut up into small sections. As a man walks slowly along the tunnel to his work, a slight fidgetiness on the part of nature loosens the stones in the roof." The stone that drops may only just touch the man's cap. But the touch is enough. His convades carry him home on. a rough stretcher of word, with some tar--cinvis over him. The poor mother and her children weep, and their own lives are made joyless with the memory of it. The dangers in the "face"-that is, at the actual work of cutting the coal-are so many that it would be quite impossible to montion all But the notorious danger is the Red

All the scientists have been at work trying to discover and thwart this source of wholesale slaughter. They know that two things, and two things alone, are responsible : a large accumulation of gas and small artificial light. As the work of getting conlituelf produces gas, that evil is 420 inevitable ; and as artificial light is necessary to do the work, why, that evil is also inevitable. Taken separately, there things do no harm. But the momentalicy come together it is the signal that a few hundred of human beings and animals. The men shout, the boys scream, the horses neigh and snort with terror aild Emmple on the weaker things. The dust rises in black clouds. By and by that dust will help make the flames more flores and strong Then it will gain on the living mass rushing before it, and men, boys, and horses wil lie down, quiet, and the fire-drugen will devour them all.

Even if they escape this monster of Rec

Death he has bahind him a more torrible power than himself. For behind the dame comes a perfect whirlwind of furnace-hot dust-the scarching blast that follows in the track of every explosion. A man may escape the fire. In his fright he falls flat upon the ground. The fire in its fury rushes over him without being able to harm him. But the moment he rises be

Se Service

Can be burg be an amount and probable the ancient cathedral city aver permits involetion be pover the withdrawal a ter hours after publication, of the ourrent imus of The Communicate a monthly magazine issued by King's School. King a m a cathedral sobool, and one of the boys who had attended service at the cathedral expressed himself rather freely will be ready for entry about lat &pril. and foreibly as to the nature of the service. The letter so outraged the exthodox connected with the cathedral that they had the paper withdrawn and suppressed. The following is the letter, as it appears in one of the copies which the cathedral authoribies did not succeed in conficating.

To the Editors of the Cantuarian. Door Sirs -I have just returned from divine service at the Cathedral Church of Christ, Canterbury. Never in my life do I remember having participated in so monstrous a performance. It is mere folly to say that any schoolboy can be or is influenced for good by such a long drawn. out, dismal, unsympathetic ritual an that performed on this Sunday morning, and, hear, on every Sunday at the above place of worship.

I am told it is an old tradition that the King's School attend this service. By all means maintain old traditious as long as they are beneficial or even harmless, but such a tradition as this can have no effect but what is absolutely injurious. A ordinary healthy English boy-or man for that matter - who regularly attends this service will do one of two things, either he will get into the habit of merely regarding these two hours of his existence as an extra period of sleep, and all that he hears will go in at one our and out at the other, or, if he is less phiegmatic in character, he will grow to regard the whole affair as a farceand a waste of time. Lither in the first place he will come to regard religion with hat stolid indifference which is ruining the English Church to-day, or he will become a sceptic or agnostic.

Think for a moment of the service as heard it. The Paalms were rushed through allegro presto, presumably bocause they were the sole part of the musical service which lent itself to congregational singing at all. The anthem was long and moderately sung; it can have had no meaning at all to most of those measure being whose offspring is only drowsiness. The hymns two in number, were well known, and could have been sung by the whole congregation; instead, they were taken an anthem, with tonor and treble solos and an organ interlude between each verse Both hynns occupied double the time they do at a parish church. The ser mon I will not criticise - except that it was too long. It is not the gift of all men to be sound and interesting as well, and the preacher was certainly sound

Through all this and through a length Bunnings, San Floor. of prayers and Litany whose whole tone was one of reverout hypocrisy, the school was compelled to sit because it was an old tradition.

Until you inspire the potential ruling ATO. 57, PRAYA GRANDE, MACAL classes of this land, that is to say, the public schools, with a feeling of strong, true religion, and not a feeling of indifference and enqui, or criticism and opposition, you will never teach the lower classes to follow you. With apologies. - Scrustor.

SCOTTISH SPORT. (From Our Own Correspondent.)

EDINEURGH, February & NARROW VICTORY OF SCOTLAND OVER WALES.

In Association football Scotland defeated Wales at Edinburgh by the only goal scored after a game in which the play was very far from International form. Scotland attacked for the greater part, but it was only three minutes from the end, when all seemed over and a draw certain, that Quinn obliged by one of those goals for which he is so justly inmous. It would fore gave him the greater satisfaction. As have been cruel luck for the Scottish a combination, Walker and Robertson Ducks,-Ap teams, however, if they had not got some bowsver, Walker put in some remarkably Doves, —Pan Kau reward for their work, even allowing for fine work. Results :-the fact that in the first half their play was disjointed and their forwards never appear- Scotland, 1; Wales, 0; ed to settle down to form.

During the opening period of Scottish Celtic, 2; Dundec, 0. pressure, the Welsh defenders stood up to Aberdeen, 1; Hibs., L. their work though their football was far Airdrie, 5; Raith Rovers, L. from polished, and it was a case of get the Partick Thistie, 3; Kilmarnock, 1. ball away, never mind how. Liewellyn St Mirren, 1; Motherwell, 0. Davis gave Robertson a hot time on the Falkirk, 7; Third Lanark, 0.laft, and Russell was not at all particular Morton, 1; Olyde, 3. as to how he got the ball from an opponent. Quinn especially had a rough time from J. T. Jones, a big strapping centre half.

The home goal had a couple of narrow cocapes, and Brownlis gave Scottish sympathisers a big fright by a faulty save. Wynn drove in a hard shot, which kept their record clean, it was only by a Brownice stopped all right; but he failed to grip the ball, and it rebounded into play, Luckily Walker, of Swindon, was 27 points to nil. Institution were hopeful lying handy, and he nipped it away before Wynn had time to get in. Close to the interval, Brownlee retrieved himself in great style. Vizard, the clever young Bolton Wanderer, had been very active on the left touch line, and he was directly responsible for getting M Nair and Walker futo difficulties. As it was, Brownlie was coming out to meet the winger; Vizard sent the ball to Wynn, who was lying in a nics position; Wynn tapped the ball quietly in the direction of the open goal; but in a manner, which seemed to border on the miraculous Brownlie recovered and BRANCHES :- Singapore, Penang, Shanghai, Bangoon, Samarang, Sourabaya, clutched the ball exicty. Diember, Cheribon, Tegal, Pecalongan,

The Scottish forwards struck up a better understanding in the second half, the most noticeable improvement being shown by Sinclair. On occasion he best Lloyd Davis cleverly, though goals would not come. For a time he was certainly the greatest forward on the held, his speed was a great esset and there was never anything resembling selfahnes in his play. The Welah gos. of credit on its Branches and correspond was stoutly attacked, and it was only the dour, and at times coarse, tactics of their defenders that kept it intact. Quinn again had a rough passage, and the referee had repeatedly to penalise Lewellyn Davis and others. Over the whole match, the Walsh men may congramiate themselves that only cute goal was registered against kiem. but Mercer in no way suffered from comparison with his better known collesgues. Thomson was outstanding at centre half; his defence was useful in the first half, and his forcingwork invaluable in the second when Scotland was pressing hard for a 1 score. Forward, Scotland was best served by Sinelair, Quinn, and Walker. Sinclair's play in the second half was all that could be desired, and some of his crosses ought to have been taken advantage of. MHe neny's play was a mixture of bad and good, with bad things in a majority. All Quinn's shortcomings were forgotten when he scored the great goal at the finish. He had a hard time of it from the Weish defenders, and the goal no doubt, there-

The revised regulations governing the granting of commissions in the Regular Army to officers of the military forces of the colonies is regarded as making an important stage in the consolidation of the Imperial delence wheme on which the advisors of the War Office have been engaged for some considerable number of years. In has been found, however, that pre-

So the thirty or so andidates selected from overses every year will have to show comething more than marely educational equipment. coal-owners is bardening. There is a belief that the strike will collapse in fortnight, but a miners' leader, on being strike would end at the earliest in three weeks and at the latest in six weeks. All depended on the action of district committees which the Government proposed to establish.

MORE RESUMPTIONS.

In Scotland 1,000 miners, in North Wales 600, and in Warwickshire 400 not come to a reasonable agreement requined work yesterday. COAL RISES IN PRICE.

Coal rose 5/- a ton in London last possible moment and the only yesterday when it was estimated that course now open to them was to ask the 37,000 were added to the number of the House to proceed with the Bill. unemployed.

SUGGESTED REMEDIES

Throughout the country the demand for prompt Government action is be coming more insistent, though it argued from opposing standpoints. section of Conservatives believe half of the strikers would return work if they dared and "urgs, the despatch of troops and the proclamation of martial law in the coalfields. section of the Radicals insist upon the find it very difficult to discharge. inclusion of the 5/- and the 2/- minima. in the Misers' Minimum Wage Bill.

"TIMES" DEPRECATES FORCE.

The Times dwells on the determina. tion of the strikers and the terrible consequences of using force, pointing out that the leaders who have returned to London from visits to the districts are more irreconcileable than ever, and that it is the duty of the Government not to spare any efforts to secure a settlement by onsent. It understands that it is the policy of the Government to pass the Bill and ascertain its effect before taking further measures.

HARROWING DISTRESS.

The stories of distress are becoming more poignant. A third of the popula. tion at Ilkeston is existing on philanthropic soup. This is almost typical of the sufferings in industrial centres such as Middlesbrough, where 25,000 ironworkers are idle.

Children are described as fainting from hunger in the streets and others have been in bed for weeks because they have no clothes.

A sad feature is the number of better class people among the hunger queues. South Wales is described as threatening to become divided into two new classes, givers and receivers of relief

GENEROUS OWNERS.

The West Yorkshire coal-owners have contributed 1,000 guinens to relieve the distress in Yorkshire.

A CONTRAST.

In contrast to the poverty is the fact that one colliery in Yorkshire estimates that a quarter of a million sterling has been made by selling the reserve stock at present prices.

PROSPECTS BLACKER

The prospect last night was blacker than ever. The Conference between owners and men, of which so much tras expected, was not held. Mr Asquith and his colleagues conferred with the owners and two of the Miners' Executive for four hours, but failed to bring them

THE WAGE BILL

Mr McKenns appounced in the House of Commons that it was hoped to take the Minimum Wage Bill to-day and to suspend the eleven o clock rule if necessary it is, however, thought likely that the Hill will be postponed as the ment with both sides on likely to be

Friday and he now repeated it the the Government could not insert any figures in the Rill. He agreed that the - and 2/- minima were not unreason able as a minimum wage, but if the case was as strong as the minera leaders thought could they doubt what would be the decision of the District Boards on the subject? He had made suggestions It is stated that the attitude of the to both parties to-day which had proved acceptable to neither. The Government had delayed the Bill from Friday til to-day in the hope that it might be possible, when the ground of discussion interviewed, said he believed that the hed been so narrowed, that some agreement might be come to by the parties.

Speaking with wdeep emotion and almost in a whisper Mr Asquith said that the Government had laboured for an agreement hard and persustently and it was to him a profound disappoint ment that he had to confees to the House that all their labours had been nnevailing. If at this fifty ninth minute of the eleventh hour the parties could upon a matter of relatively small propertions, they would have a serious account to render to the country. Government had done all they could They had postponed legislation to the

The Premier added :- "Let the Bill pass at the earliest possible moment and then, when it has passed as the law of the land, and when in the opinion of Parliament underground miners are guaranteed a reasonable minimum wage, and when it-will be further passed as the law of the land that there shall be provided fair and impartial machinery to ascertain and guarantee that minimum wage-then a continuation of stoppage of work with its infinite mischief and damage would impress upon those responsible for it a burden of responsibility that they would

Mr Asquith concluded: -" We have exhausted all our powers of persussion, argument and negotiation. We prom this Bill upon the House as affording the best possible provisions in the great emergency wherewith we are confronted, and we chim that we have done our best in the public interest with perfect fairness and impartiality."

MR BOYAR LAW'S SYMPATHY

Mr Bonar Law said he deeply sympathieed with the Premier, and trested that the Bill would end the crisis and that the men would return to work. If not the Government were entitled to remind the miners that they were also British citizens and the whole forces of the country should be-employ ed to protect those desiring to obey

LABOUR OPPOSITION.

An amendment to the Bill providing for the insertion of the ... and minima was rejected by 326 votes to The Labour members have deci to oppose the third reading of the Bill

HOUSE OF LORDS.

In the House of Lords, Lord Crawe stated that the House would take the Coal Bill to-morrow, and he would move a motion enabling more than one stage to be taken on the same day.

LABOUR'S POINT OF VIEW

Mr Remeny Macdonald said that the failure of the negotiations was entirely due to the owners who had not budged one inch. If they wished to go to the public clean-handed it must be before the bill passed. They must meet the men and agree upon something substantial, enabling the leaders to tel the men that the bill was acceptable otherwise the largest share of the re sponsibility for the continued deadlock was theirs.

Mr McKenna announced that ashitherto no settlement had been come to, the Government would take all the stages in the Coal Bill in the House of Commons to-day.
